PARKER, HARVARD'S RUSHER, AND CRIMSON SQUAD LEAVING HARVARD SQUARE THIS MORNING.

This is a photograph of Parker, the big rusher on the Harvard eleven, taken by a BOSTON AMERICAN camera man during practice on Soldiers Field. Whether Parker will play guard or centre in the Yale game has not been decided, but it is probable he will snap the ball.

CHEERED BY STUDENTS, HARVARD KICKERS START FOR NEW HAVEN

Two hundred wildly cheering undergraduates saw the Harvard football squad leave Harvard square this morning at 10:15 in two special cars, bound for the Back Bay Station, where the train took a trip to New Haven for their annual struggle with the Yale team Saturday.

The squad left the square after being given cheering. Each player in turn was cheered, and then the students wound up with three loud hurrahs for the team as a whole. Dan Harley was given a rouser that must have warmed the cockles of his courageous young heart, to which the cheering captain replied by tossing one of his good-natured smiles upon the gathering.

Long before the hour of starting arrived the students poured into the square. Most of them had just left their dormitories. As Fall, the students showed their loyalty to the football team by staying out in the cold.

Loyal Freshies Out.
The body of students was largely composed of "freshies." It seems that when a big game to Harvard more than a year, he doesn't believe in the custom of standing out on the common just to find a football team passing, so he stays under cover.

Harvard Asks Big Odds.
Some odd things have come out in the betting here the past day or two. It is hard to get a Harvard man to put up a wager at better terms than 4 to 1. Yale is the favorite here to win, and the odds are generally put rather to back a notch lower, the indication of the large score Yale is expected to make is seen in the custom of a head cap, where a point is made on the size of the score. Of four teams given odds, Harvard would not get over the Yale odds.

Start is Made.
At times and this will be no man—rather to train—consequently Manager

Goodman found it necessary to give the order to get under way. Then Harvard square was left behind. As the streets along the route are in a way and the crowd is so large, the players for the Harvard team had to wait for the arrival of the train at the station. When the players got to the station, they were met by a large crowd of students waiting to see them. The players were then taken to the hotel where they will stay during their stay in New Haven.

No Cheers at Station.
At the station there was not a single student in sight. It was expected that a big bunch of students would cheer the team as they boarded the train for the home of the building. It was certainly a cool reception when the Harvard football warriors got into their special cars, which were attached to the regular train, and were off for the battlefield.

Harvard Players Loaded to Go.
The Harvard players, loaded to go, in very good condition. The team was in a very good condition, and the players were in a very good condition. The team was in a very good condition, and the players were in a very good condition.

Will Play Hard Game.
"I know that," said Lewis, "but this year we are going to play them exceptionally hard."

Will Play Hard Game.
"I know that," said Lewis, "but this year we are going to play them exceptionally hard."

Dan Harley said that the prospects were very bright and that the team was in a very good condition. The team was in a very good condition, and the players were in a very good condition. The team was in a very good condition, and the players were in a very good condition.

Harvard Eleven's Last Practice Home Listless.
BY ROBERT P. KERNAN, Captain 1902 Eleven.

The chief criticism of the Harvard team made by the undergraduates after attending the last practice was that the team appeared to take hold of their work in a tired, listless fashion, and undoubtedly this criticism was well founded. No special weakness was apparent in either the offensive or defensive game, but the spirit of the players seemed halfhearted. In reality their spirit is splendid, any slump arising from physical rather than mental fatigue.

Lack of Dash.
When the offense was tested it proved good to nothing, owing with remarkable ease. Nevertheless there was a lack of dash in the attack, and the defense was gain ground consistently against Yale. The defense was a general failure, and the team was in a very good condition.

Will Play Hard Game.
"I know that," said Lewis, "but this year we are going to play them exceptionally hard."

YALE MEN WON'T GIVE BIG ODDS, SO BETS ARE SCARCE

Special to the Boston American.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17.—Talk of a game between the East and West—Yale and Michigan—being arranged for next year, when the Michigan representatives arrive at Yale tomorrow, has been checked by statements from some of the foremost Yale football leaders, that they see no reason for such a match. The Yale schedule will not be made up till after the next year's captain is elected, and, as that player will in all probability be Rowell Tice—a Chicago boy, the Yale policy would be to give the game exceedingly favorable to a game with a Western team, but the point coaches feel that the schedule was strained too close the past season, and that it should be raised another year instead of offering.

YALE PRACTICE OVER.
Yale's work of preparation for the Harvard game Saturday is over, and the team has nothing to do but rest and dream of victory till it faces the Harvard giants again today. The undergraduates marched to the field in a line, and the Yale cheer and the new football songs rang through the inclosure during the day. Several of the Yale players have been handicapped, extreme caution since the Princeton game, and because of their condition, coaches will not decide upon the lineup.

HARVARD MAY BE ADDED

Special to the Boston American.
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The executive committee of the Intercollegiate Athletic association will meet at the Murray Hill Hotel on Saturday, when it is expected that Harvard will be admitted to the association, as she has already petitioned for membership. There is also a movement on hand to combine the Western association and the intercollegiate association and have both under one government.

AMATEURS TO MEET IN WAT

On Monday evening, Dec. 5, in the Cambridgeport Gymnasium, there will be a wrestling tournament open to registered amateur athletes in the following classes: 115 pounds, 150 pounds, 185 pounds and heavyweight. In all classes five or take two pounds will be the rule.

COLLINS WILL BEAT MEETING

Junior Collins, captain-manager of the Boston American baseball team, and an invitation to attend the annual meeting of the American League, which will be held in Chicago next month. He will probably go to the meeting, with Collins, Mark and Charley Condit, instead of Tom Loftis. Collins is rather in favor of the fast strike rule, and undoubtedly there would be a hot fight on this score, if Collins were chosen for the committee of three.

PARADE MEETING TROTTERING QUEEN TO TRY AGAIN

By a score of 15 to 6 the Harvard seniors beat the sophomores and won the purchase fund of football, which was the "Harvard" fund. The backs of the victorious team did not create any

ADA REHAN DELIGHTS HER LARGE AUDIENCE

"Lady Teazle" Marked by the Rare Art That Has Made Character Almost Her Own.

Ada Rehan played Lady Teazle in the "School for Scandal" last night at the Metropolitan Theatre, and a large audience gathered and applauded an admirable performance.

Miss Rehan's characterization of Lady Teazle is a familiar one. Probably most of those who made up last night's audience had seen her in the role before, and that in no degree lessened their pleasure. Such a performance as Miss Rehan's is a rare thing in this city. Her Lady Teazle is a character of such depth and variety, each line with its own significance, and each action with its own meaning, that it is a pleasure to see her in the role. Her performance is a masterpiece of acting, and it is a pleasure to see her in the role.

A Delightful Performance.

Her performance last night was as delightful as ever, and marked by the same art that has won applause for her in every other role. Her Lady Teazle is a character of such depth and variety, each line with its own significance, and each action with its own meaning, that it is a pleasure to see her in the role. Her performance is a masterpiece of acting, and it is a pleasure to see her in the role.

Attractions at Other Theatres

Keith's Theatre. This week's offering at Keith's has proved very popular. There is something to appeal nearly every age and taste, and the bill is especially strong in comedy. "The Merry Widow" is the feature, a grand comedy, and "The Merry Widow" is the feature, a grand comedy, and "The Merry Widow" is the feature, a grand comedy.

Hollis Street Theatre. William Gillette is under the end of his third week in "The Admirable Crichton" at the Hollis Street Theatre, but there is no abatement in the interest. His performance is very strong to the intellectual, and his characterization of Crichton is a masterpiece of acting.

Tremont Theatre. Henrietta Crooman is still playing "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" to large audiences at the Tremont Theatre, and is pleasing everyone with her clever and virtuous performance of this delightful character. Her characterization of Kitty Bellairs is a masterpiece of acting, and it is a pleasure to see her in the role.

Grand Opera House. By the Grand Opera House it has been made large enough to accommodate the "Pirates of the Air." The "Pirates of the Air" is a new play, and it is a pleasure to see it in the Grand Opera House.

Howard Athenaeum. The patrons of the Howard are showing better approval of this week's show than of any other. The "Pirates of the Air" is a new play, and it is a pleasure to see it in the Howard Athenaeum.

BIG GRIPPOON FIGHT TO BRING THE SOCIETY

Miss Alice Roosevelt Will, with Others, See Yale-Harvard Game.

GOSSIP OF THE SMART SET

By Billie Bacon.

Miss Alice Roosevelt is not to grace her father's Thanksgiving board this year, for she is to spend the day, as well as three days previous and several days after, with her grandmother, Mrs. George C. Lee, at her home in Chestnut Hill. Miss Roosevelt will arrive in Boston on Monday or Tuesday of next week, and will come from New York where she is at present attending the horse show.

I have heard of no plans for her entertainment while she is in Boston, although I expect that the Lee home will be quite cozy with relatives and Miss Roosevelt will certainly have a few of her Boston girl friends with an informal dinner.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Treadwell and Capt. Brainerd Ely, which was a most recent in New Haven, has quite a bit of interest in it for the smart set of the Boston set. For the bride is a daughter of the late John Treadwell, who was in the city last winter quite a bit and while in town was generally entertained.

I am told that Miss Elizabeth was attended by Miss Henrietta Crooman, and that the bride was dressed in a very simple and elegant manner. The wedding was a most successful one, and the bride and groom were very happy.

The Boston musical set is soon to have a chance to hear Eugene Scare, the violinist from France, whose fame has preceded him to this country. He will give a concert at the Boston Music Hall, and it is expected that he will be very successful. Eugene Scare is a most talented violinist, and his performance is a masterpiece of playing.

Among the Philadelphia who are in the city for a visit are Mr. and Mrs. William Moore, who are with friends in the Back Bay. Later they are to make a visit to the city, and it is expected that they will be very successful.

Columbia Music Hall. "The Merry Widow" is the title of next week's play. The play is a grand comedy, and it is a pleasure to see it in the Columbia Music Hall.

Castle Square Theatre. "The Merry Widow" is the title of next week's play. The play is a grand comedy, and it is a pleasure to see it in the Castle Square Theatre.

Palace Theatre. "The Merry Widow" is the title of next week's play. The play is a grand comedy, and it is a pleasure to see it in the Palace Theatre.

Howard Athenaeum. "The Merry Widow" is the title of next week's play. The play is a grand comedy, and it is a pleasure to see it in the Howard Athenaeum.
